Princeton Fire Department, 187 Years Old, Elects First Woman Member

"It's about time a Rodweller got some sense and joined Hook and Ladder!"

That was the joke around the Harrison Street firehouse last Wednesday night, after Hannah Rodweller, 18 years old, of 67 Harrison St., was voted a member of Hook and Ladder, oldest of Princeton's three volunteer fire companies.

It was a history-making evening. Hannah is the first woman to be admitted to a fire brigade in the 187-year-history of fire fighting in Princeton. She may be one of only three female fire-fighters in the entire state.

Not only that...a Rodweller in Hook and Ladder! For two generations, Rodwellers , Hannah's father Raymond among them, have been fighting fires as members of Princeton Engine Company Number 1 on Chestnut Street. It's like Mr. Macy going over to Mr. Gimbel.

Just to add to the excitement on Harrison Street, George Rollings of Hook and Ladder is this year's Fire Chief.

Why Hook and Ladder?

"I had friends in the company," Miss Rodweller says. "I pumped gas at the Sunoco station for a year—all during the shortage!—and one of the customers was Peter Hanley, in Hook and Ladder. He gave me an application last month and I filled it out and—well, I got it!"

"My father thinks it's pretty good. Mom hasn't said much, but I don't think she minds."

Shy and pretty, with a sheen of light brown hair, Hannah Rodweller grins a little. "My father lost a couple of bets on whether I'd get in."

"We were sure she had the capabilities," says Chief Rollings. "She's a strong girl, passed the physical. She'll go through training just like anybody else."

Training is every Tuesday night: learning use of equipment, watching films. In the fall, she'll attend Mercer County's fire-fighting school. When weather warms, there will be "wet drills" outside. No actual fires because of the state's burning ban.

Fire fighters train continuously, Chief Rollings explains. A rookie simply comes in at one point of the circle. "We've got to keep on top of new kinds of construction and new methods," the chief says.

Hannah Rodweller has always wanted to fight fires. As a nine or ten-year-old, she used to jump out of bed at some pre-dawn alarm and help her father.

"There wasn't a Plectron then (a small unit within the fireman's home) so we'd hear the alarm. I'd get his stuff ready and hold the door open so he could run out. When I got old enough to ride a bike, I began going to fires myself. Yes, night ones, too, like the 3 a.m. one up on Cherry Valley last fall. Yes, the Hulit fire, too."

Graduated last June from Notre Dame, Miss Rodweller tried nurse's training at Mercer County Community College but didn't like it. She's now hunting a full-time job. An older sister is in college.

The late Elmer Rodweller, grandfather of Hannah, and William and Raymond, her uncle and father, were all active in Number One for many years. Her great-uncle Leo was head of the Borough police force at one time.

Hook and Ladder, Princeton's oldest, was founded in 1788. Princeton Number One came along in 1794 and Mercer Number 3, in 1847. Number 3 has Princeton's only black fire fighter, Jimmie Pittman.

Election of a woman to a fire company is a reminder that the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad is in court for refusal to admit a woman. Grandfather Elmer Rodweller was a founder of the Squad and William and Raymond were both active.

"I guess if the Squad had been open to women I'd have joined," Miss Rodweller says. "I can't see why they can't have women members who serve during the day, but I guess I can see why they wouldn't want them staying at night."

The state's Civil Rights office says

Mount Lucas near Herrontown Listed as Site For Offices and 138-Unit Apartment Complex

As Carnegie Development began to lay out its plans for 138 apartments and an office building on Mt. Lucas Road, Planning Board chairman Hans K. Sander observed,

"You are the latest group ever to be entertained by this board."

It was ten minutes of one, last Tuesday. Or rather, last Wednesday, January 8.

Carnegie's 12.74 acres is on Mt. Lucas and Herrontown Roads. Like a Phoenix, its office-apartment complex would rise where the tower known as North Square of Princeton went down to dust in 1970, victim of an army of victorious opposing neighbors.

Carnegie plans 104 one-bedroom flats and 34 two-bedroom duplex apartments on 9.02 acres in the Township's R-2 zone, plus a three-story office building on 3.72 adjoining acres in the S-2 zone. Such buildings are a permitted use in the Township's service zones. The building would be built partly on stilts with 22 parking spaces in the ground-level area fenced off by the stilts.

Plans Are Preliminary. Sketches, still preliminary, show an entrance and exit on Mt. Lucas for the apartments and an entrance on Herrontown for the office building. Living and working areas are connected in a few places.

The Planning Board declined to take any position because the board's housing study isn't finished yet. According to W. Joseph Shinn, Township zoning officer, Carnegie needs a special permit to reduce parking requirements because zoning law requires two spaces for each dwelling unit and one for each 200 square feet of gross office space, which adds up to about 500 spaces. Carnegie is short 136.

Also, because the project has multiple housing units, the developer must obtain from the Zoning Board a favorable recommendation to Township Committee to grant a use variance. Carnegie also needs a variance from the 30-foot height limit for service zones. The planned height is now 57 feet.

Carnegie has a winding road to travel before it can finish the game and maybe even win. Next stop is the site plan review board's meeting next week. Then back to the Planning Board for a recommendation on use variance and site plan. Then on to the Township Zoning Board, and finally to Township Committee.

Change in Store Front. Earlier in the evening---shortly after midnight---the Planning Board approved J. V. Skillman's plan to lop the front off the Nassau Street building that houses the Piccadilly boutique, and approved the proposal of some Queenston Common owners to lay sod around the recreation area.

For an hour and a half, the board heard violent neighborhood protest to plans of Roger J. De Wiest for subdividing property he owns on Prospect Avenue. The board finally scheduled an unprecedented public meeting of its sub-division committee for this past Monday afternoon to discuss drainage on the site. Mr De Wiest is now on the board's February 4 agenda for a continuation of last week's hearing, and by that time the sub-division committee may have reached a decision. Planning Board members Charles Berry, Abbot Low Moffat and Margen Penick attended Monday's session.

On Tuesday night, Robert Alpert, 363 Prospect; Sin Cheng, 379 Prospect, and other neighbors presented expert witnesses to back their opposition. The DeWiest property----undeveloped, without a house---has an interior lot reached only by a 50-foot easement between the Alpert and Cheng properties. Mr. De Wiest proposes to divide his land in two, down the middle of the easement. He would sell the two pieces as buildable lots.

The area as a whole has indifferent drainage. Township engineer Joseph Hodak told the board that construction of two houses, as opposed to one, would have an insignificant effect on drainage. If Mr. De Wiest wanted to build only one house, he would not need to come before the board.

In other action, the Planning Board agreed unanimously to put Princeton Battlefield Park on the Open Space Master Plan map, and approved the Township's plan to acquire bike path easements on The Great Road.

BOROUGH BUDGET

"Tentative." A preliminary, tentative Administrator's budget with the local tax up eight points, was laid before Borough Council Thursday by Administrator Robert F. Mooney.

It's only rough-hewn, asked-for figures—nothing final. Council will now sit down with scalpel and begin to work.

No provisions have been made for salary increases, but Mr. Mooney emphasized this doesn't mean there won't be any.

"Council felt this way gives a better base to work from," he explained.

The budget shows a local tax rate of $1.05, up eight points from 97 percent. Each tax point is $9,800. That '74 rate was, in turn, up from '73's 94 cents.

Total appropriations are $2,965,008 compared to $2,921,894 — $43,114 more than this year's. General revenues are down $52,380 — from $1,941,563 to an anticipated $1,889,183. (These are liquor license fees, parking meters, franchise and gross receipt taxes, but not property taxes.)

Surplus Eroded. "Revenues are where we're hurting—the 1974 operations were devastating!" Mr. Mooney laments. Inflation, an unexpected 1½ percent more in non-police salaries and $10,000 more for transportation compelled the Borough to dip into the $313,690 surplus for $250,300. Only $189,000 got put back.

Mr. Mooney calls it a "bare bones, austerity budget." All new programs have been crossed out. There is provision for one new employee: an assistant administrator. Mr. Mooney wistfully hopes would be "as smart and sharp as Girard Miller" (the Township's assistant administrator.)

Capital improvements consist of $10,000, headed for an untouchable trust account toward a new fire truck, $7,500 for bike paths; $8,000 to reconstruct four municipal wading pools and road work as follows: reconstruction and drainage on Lytle ($24,000) overlay on Westcott ($8,400); resurfacing on Avalon ($6,000); storm drains as a prelude to '76 reconstruction on Lafeyette and Hunter ($9,000).

The overall total is $89,000, down from last year's $149,000. The state has awarded $24,200 for work on Harrison between Nassau and Hamilton, almost 90 percent of the estimated $27,020.

However, Engineer Donald Harney says the state has warned that these funds may go instead to mass transit. Since a town must appropriate the whole amount and wait for re-imbursement, the Borough may hold off on Harrison in light of these uncertainties.

Rateables up $1.5 Million. The rateables base is $98,000,000 — $1,500,000 higher than '74. The additional $1½ million means $39,000 more in taxes.

The increase is chiefly due to Queenston Commons, but also to the new building at Hulfish and Witherspoon, and miscellaneous remodeling of homes, offices and taxable University properties.

The budget includes $30,000 for revaluation of properties. At present, the Borough is assessing at about 59 percent of true value. Although the law requires 100 percent, the real estate picture in the Borough combined with the fact that properties haven't been revalued in ten years means that in actual terms, the assessments come to 59 percent.

"The county has nudged us to revalue and could require us to," the administrator said.

NEW FIRE-FIGHTER: Hannah Rodweller, 18, is the first woman to be admitted to membership in one of Princeton's volunteer fire companies. It's Hook and Ladder, and she's trying out a fire truck in the firehouse. Hannah has wanted to be a "fireman" ever since she can remember.

two New Jersey communities have fire companies that now admit women. One is Quinton, in Salem County, the other is Mullica Hill in Gloucester County.

Borough Council approved Miss Rodweller's membership on Tuesday. Now she's eligible to ride the truck, roll along with the other members of Hook and Ladder and earn her spurs as a Rodweller.

STUDENT CHARGED

In U-Store Entry. A Princeton University student was arrested by Borough police and University proctors early Thursday morning after he tried to escape from inside the University Store.

Free after he posted 10 percent of $10,000 bail is Pierre-Philippe President, 21, a university senior living on Harrison Street. Charged with breaking and entering and larceny, he is scheduled to appear in Borough court Wednesday.

Police said that Mr. President apparently triggered an alarm inside the store shortly after 4 in the morning. Ptl. Gerald Patterson and Sgt. Thomas Procaccino responded to an alert by university security.

As Ptl. Patterson arrived in the front of the store, he saw a silhouetted figure on the second floor bending over merchandise. The suspect, apparently seeing the officer, went out a second floor window at the rear of the store where he dropped to another level and then to the ground. He was apprehended by waiting proctors and placed under arrest.

Police said that Mr. President had assembled two color television sets, calculators, stereo, typewriter and guitar near the door, which were seen by Ptl. Patterson. He reportedly had unscrewed a metal moulding around a window on the south side of the building and then removed the window to get inside.

AT COUNCIL....

Varied Action. The dinky may yet be saved. Barbara Sigmund, of Borough Council, reported to Council Tuesday night that the state has promised to "object" if Federal officials decide on "interim abandonment" of the shuttle line. Such state action would stop the abandonment, she explained.

With representatives of neighboring communities, Mrs. Sigmund will go to Washington to talk with the ICC, Congressional representatives and railway planners, attempting a definitive solution to save the dinky permanently.

Hopewell Borough is still balking at signing the regional sewer service agreement, reported Mayor Robert W. Cawley. With Pennington, Hopewell wants firm state assurance of money to build collector lines. Pennington seems confident enough to vote the agreement shortly, the mayor said, but Hopewell has a "credibility fight" with the state. "It's too bad an important project like the sewer can be held up in this fashion," the mayor observed.

Charles Cornforth, Westcott Road, expressed dismay over Council's decision not to reappoint Norman Williams to the Zoning Board. The governed, said Mr. Cornforth, have the right to be governed by the best-qualified. He added he would like both Mr. Williams and his replacement, Jan Schneier, to serve.

Lowell Curran, Murray Place, observed that newly-elected Council members participate in decision-making on appointments before they are actually sworn in, and he questioned the legality of this policy. It's an old custom, the mayor explained.

Council has asked the Planning Board to name a non-voting liaison member to zoning, Mayor Cawley announced. Planning board member William Walker, from the audience, said a liaison designation was useless. A full voting member is required, he declared.

TIRE SLASHER BUSY

In Borough. Borough police report four cases of tire slashings last week, three on Sunday in the West End area.

Two rear tires valued at $150 were slashed on a car owned by an employee of a Lafayette Road home. Two tires of a car owned by a Township resident and two of a car owned by a West Windsor resident were slashed while they were parked on Westcott Road. Two tires of a car parked on Cleveland Lane were also slashed.

The same evening, a Westcott Road resident reported that someone had driven over his lawn, leaving tire tracks and knocking down a house number.

Car Top Slit. A tape deck valued at $130 and two speakers ($35) were stolen from a Jaguar last week while it was parked in a Palmer Square lot. Police said that the car's convertible top had been cut. The owner is a Palmer Square resident.

Police also report that there was an unsuccessful attempt to remove a radio from a sports car parked in the same lot. Considerable damage was done to the radio trying to remove it, police said.

A wooden barricade was thrown through the rear window of a 1970 model car last week while it was parked in the Franklin Avenue lot of the Princeton Medical Center.

Cars Entered. In the Township, Ann Ike of Plainsboro, an employee of the Medical Center, lost $1.70 when the glove compartment of her unlocked car was ransacked. It was parked in front of 42 Harris Road. Personal papers had been tossed in a nearby storm drain.

Hilga Tremut of 46 Henry Avenue lost two rings valued at $45 each and a $35 set of pearl earrings taken from the glove compartment of her car between 4:10 and 6:10 Saturday afternoon while it was parked in her driveway. Police said the car was unlocked.

Also on the same block, John Pesce, 75 Harris Road, heard his dog bark a few minutes before midnight Saturday; he looked out and saw a young man standing next to his two cars parked in the driveway.

The cars had been entered, police said, but nothing was taken. Police have a suspect.

Winter Turned White

A little nippy
On the nose.
A little slippy
For the toes

The first snowfall of any proportions arrived Monday when a cold front blew through the rain and changed the drops to flakes. It remained below freezing most of Tuesday, after the list two weeks of January had totalled more than 100 degrees above the mean temperature for the month.

More precipitation about Thursday—possibly some of both kinds—with the thermometer remaining seasonably cold. Partly sunny skies for the weekend.

SUSPECT RECOGNIZED

Arrested In Library. A suspect wanted by Borough police since early December for allegedly committing an act of open lewdness at Firestone Library on the university campus was arrested last week.

The suspect, James E. Smith, 33, of Plainsboro, was observed sitting in the Princeton Public Library by Sgt. Arthur Gallant who recognized him from a photograph. He was later released in $10,000 bail by Judge Philip Carchman and turned over to the Middlesex County Prosecutor's Office, which has two warrants for his arrest, charging him with open lewdness in the Rutgers University library.

Smith faces a hearing January 22 in Borough court.

Youth Arrested. Melvin T. Miller, 18, of Clay Street, was arrested Saturday and charged with loitering in the hallway of a Witherspoon Street apartment house while under the influence of alcohol.

Sgt. Thomas Procaccino was the arresting officer.

Twin Brothers Arrested. Darrel and Durwin Newlin, 18-year old twin brothers from Birch Avenue, were arrested late Saturday night and charged with fighting.

Police responded to numerous calls reporting a fight in progress on Park Place and reported finding a large group of people milling around in the street. Neither of the brothers required medical aid.

They were released with a complaint summons, pending their appearance Wednesday in Borough Court. Police said that they did not know what caused the fight.

Charged with Shoplifting. Gregory M. Bullock, 24, of John Street, was arrested in Dohm's Alley next to Zinder's on Nassau Street Thursday afternoon, after he had allegedly shoplifted articles of clothing from Landau's, 114 Nassau.

Ptl. Victor Fasanella, on foot patrol in the area, received the description of the suspect on his walkie-talkie and made the arrest. Bullock, also charged with taking clothing from Allen's, 134 Nassau, was later released in his own recognizance to await a court hearing scheduled for Wednesday.

Driver Arrested. Phillip T. Allshouse, 18, Pretty Brook Road, was arrested at 11 p.m. Saturday by Ptl. Mario Musso and charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Police said that Mr. Allshouse was driving fast in circles at the Princeton Shopping Center lot. His court appearance: February 19.

Breaking and enterings were down sharply last week in Princeton but not enough, as far as TOWN TOPICS was concerned.

During the weekend, a thief broke a pane of glass in a rear door to enter the building at 4 Mercer Street. Once inside, he stole two Polaroid cameras and a clock radio. Ptl. Robert Mucciarelli investigated.

STUDENT OVERCOME

In Laundry Fire. A 19-year old Princeton University student, Dianna Myers, was treated at Princeton Medical Center for smoke inhalation and released following a fire early Friday morning in a clothes dryer in the basement of the Princeton Inn College. She had attempted to put out the blaze with a fire extinguisher.

According to police, the fire began shortly after 2 a.m. and was confined to the dryer, but dense clouds of smoke forced evacuation of the entire building. A general alarm was ordered by Sgt. Thomas Procaccino and Ptl. Gerald Patterson at 2:11--one minute after they arrived at the scene. All firemen had left by 3 a.m.

Fireplace Fire. One piece of fire equipment responded to a fire Friday at 5:05 p.m. at 13 Ober Road.

HOPEWELL MALL SLOWED By Court Ruling on Water. Downtown Trenton business interests have blocked at least temporarily the sale by the City of Trenton of water to the proposed $55-million Rouse Co. shopping mall in Hopewell Township. A Superior Court judge ruled Monday that the sale would first require the approval of the Mayor of Trenton.

Are You a Landlord?

If you own property in Princeton Township, you must register during January of each year, every building, or part of a building, that you rent to people for use as a home. Deadline is February 1. There is no fee, and registration forms are available in Township Hall.

And Trenton Mayor Arthur J. Holland announced immediately that he would refuse to sign a contract to supply city water to the Rouse Mall. The contract had already been approved by Trenton City Council by a 4-2 vote.

It was believed that attorney Frank Walsh, representing the Rouse Co., would appeal the decision issued by Judge George Y. Schoch.

The Rouse Company needs the promise of water to construct its mall at the Pennington Circle. Thus, if Judge Schoch's ruling is upheld, it may be forced to buy its water from the Elizabethtown Water Company at a reportedly higher cost because of the longer distance involved.

Judge Schoch's ruling is based on a technicality of state law that a contract between one municipality and another must be approved by both mayor and council. In the case of a contract between a municipality and an individual or a corporation, it can be approved by council alone, with the mayor's signature only a formality.

A Legal Loophole. The Rouse water contract called for the city to sell water to the Hopewell Township Municipal Utilities Authority, which would then sell it to Rouse. Trenton businessman Eugene V. Howard discovered the legal technicality, noting that the Utilities Authority, as an arm of the Hopewell Township Council, is essentially the same as contracting with another municipality.

Mr. Howard's argument was upheld over that of Walsh and assistant Trenton City attorney George T. Dougherty, who argued that the utilities authority was merely a "conduit" for the sale to Rouse. But Judge Schoch found that the utilities authority was "more than a conduit". He wrote, "It is required by the city to pay for the water; it has the right to cancel the contract; it controls the pipelines."

Mayor Holland, who initially indicated his approval of the sale of the water, changed his attitude when Trenton downtown merchants lobbied vociferously against the city's support of outside competitors potentially injurious to their businesses. Mayor Holland said he will consult with the City Attorney before taking action.

Mr. Howard, who is chairman of the Trenton Common Commission, recognized that the Rouse Co. may still be able to get water elsewhere. But, he expressed the hope that, "the people in Pennington and Hopewell who are anti-Rouse would make their voices heard."

The formerly Republican Hopewell Township Committee gave approval to Rouse to buy Trenton's water, but the Democrats, who took over on January 1, used opposition to the mall as one of their major campaign issues last fall. It is expected that they will try to rescind the approval granted by the Republicans.

BIKE PATHS.... Easement Hearing Set. Public hearing will be held next Monday in Township Hall on an ordinance to acquire, for $10,000, easements for a bike path along The Great Road. The hearing, at 8 p.m., will be before Township Committee.

Properties affected by the ordinance are those of James Love, Mrs. Edward Howe and John G. Winant. Last week, the Princeton Regional Planning Board gave its approval to the ordinance.

LIAISON URGED

Zoning-Planning. The case of Planning Board member Norman Williams, who was not re-appointed to his seat on the Borough Zoning Board, continued in the news this week.

Hans K. Sander, chairman of the Planning Board, said he believed formal liaison between zoning and planning boards to be essential. He recalled the Township case in which Edward Kopp, who wanted to build 33 garden apartment units, went directly to the Township Zoning Board without conferring with the Princeton Regional Planning Board. That board wasn't aware of Mr. Kopp's plans until the Township Zoning Board had granted the necessary variance.

Both Mr. Sander and Mr. Williams eventually appeared before Township Committee in protest because the Planning Board's housing study was still under preparation and Mr. Kopp had, so to speak, jumped the gun.

Mr. Sander estimated the cost of straightening out the Kopp tangle at $4,300, not counting the time of Planning Board members at various Kopp hearings.

"The good that derives from liaison between the two boards far outweighs the possibility of one member wielding power over the others," Mr. Sander said, "It is important for zoning and planning to work closely together: planning must be aware of zoning's quasi-judicial role and zoning must be aware of the master-planning aspect of planning board work. A non-voting liaison isn't the answer; a non-voting person is less likely to attend meetings."

Mr. Williams was not renamed to the zoning board because, Borough Council members said, there could be a conflict of interest in holding the two voting positions.

PEACE CENTER CLOSES

Lacks New Activities. The Peace Center, located for four years at 163 Nassau, has closed its doors as of January 1. Founder Bart Hoebel, a psychology professor at Princeton University, commented that "the Peace Center met a particular need at a particular time", and that the high rent no longer justified its continuance.

Roger Maren of the Fellowship of Reconciliation explained that a full-time coordinator would have been needed to initiate projects and stimulate the involvement of volunteers if the Peace Center were to have been continued. Alan Smith has recently acted as part-time coordinator, but was unable to give the full attention needed.

Mr. Maren, who edits the newsletter, "Peace Action", observed that "the Center fell apart because its biggest function was as a coordinator of anti-war activities. For about four years, he said, "it was only necessary to have a large bunch of volunteers to pull ends together."

Mr. Maren said that the only major effect of the Center's folding was to close the Fellowship of Reconciliation library, which has been donated to the Princeton Public Library for incorporation into the library's general collection. The Fellowship has also lost its meeting room, which will now revert to members' homes.

In addition, the sale of UNICEF Christmas cards will be disbanded, which Mr. Hoebel said amounted to some $30,000 over four years. The Fellowship of Reconciliation will now take over any projects that the Peace Center might have formally undertaken.

Said Mr. Hoebel, "Most people think that, with the signing of the Paris Peace accord, the war in Vietnam ended."

If You Have a Consumer Problem. . .

A consumer affairs specialist from the Mercer County Division of Consumer Affairs will be in Borough Hall one day a month, starting Monday, it was announced this week by Council member Murray Medvin. Hours will be 9-5.

Although the representative will have desk space in Borough Hall, the service is open to Township residents also, Mr. Medvin said.

After next Monday, the office will be open the second Monday in each month, so if you miss on January 20, you can catch the representative on February 10.

If you think you've been the victim of an unfair business practice, you can file a complaint with the Consumer Affairs representative. The division will investigate and try to work out a solution. If the problem is one the division can't solve, its representatives will refer you to the agency that can help.

The director of the Mercer County Division of Consumer Affairs is Elaine Schuman, a Princeton resident.

Mr. Medvin had hoped a Social Security representative could also come regularly to Borough Hall but he has been told by Social Security officials that budget cuts and staff reductions make it impossible.

If you have a Social Security problem, you can call "Teleclaim," 799-9200, for help, Mr. Medvin said.

News Of The THEATRES

"MOTHER COURAGE"

By McCarter. Bertolt Brecht's masterpiece, "Mother Courage" will be the next offering of the McCarter Theatre Company, to be presented for 12 performances starting Thursday, February 13.

The Tennessee Williams play, "Kingdom of Earth," originally scheduled for this period, will now be presented March 6-16, replacing James Joyce's "Exiles."

Michael Kahn, McCarter's producing director, will stage "Mother Courage," using the English translation by Eric Bentley and music by David Raskin. David Jenkins will design the sets, Lawrence Casey the costumes and John McLain the lighting.

The title role of the indomitable Mother Courage will be played by Eileen Heckart, who received an Oscar for her portrayal of the mother in the film version of "Butterflies are Free." She has appeared in the Broadway productions of "Picnic," "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs," "The Bad Seed," "A View from the Bridge," "Pal Joey," "Barefoot in the Park" and "Butterflies are Free."

Tom Poston and Lee Richardson will play the parts of the Chaplain and the Cook. Maria Tucci, who will be remembered from "Beyond the Horizon" earlier this season, will be Kattrin and Philip Yankee (Miss Heckart's son, in real life) will be Mother Courage's son, Swiss Cheese.

AILEY

In Two Shows. Seven different works spread over two performances will be displayed for Princeton's dance buffs when the Alvin Ailey Dance Theatre comes to McCarter Monday and Tuesday.

On Monday at 8, the company will perform Mr. Ailey's "Streams" to music by Miloslav Kabelac, "Feast of Ashes," based on the Garcia Lorca story, and the company's signature work, "Revelations," which uses traditional Negro spirituals. Also on Monday, Sara Yarborough will dance the solo work, "Cry."

Tuesday's program will open with the world premiere of Mr. Ailey's latest work, "Night Creature," to music by Duke Ellington. The 26 dancers will also present "A Song for You" to Leon Russell's music, and the full-length "Carmina Burana," the Carl Orff choral work.

"RIVER NIGER"

Award-Winner Coming. Originally produced by the Negro Ensemble Company, "The River Niger" has won six Obies, and the Drama Desk and Outer Critics' Circle Awards for the Best Play of the 1973-74 season.

It will be at McCarter under the direction of the playwright, Joseph A. Walker, for two performances: Friday and Saturday, January 24 and 25, each at 8:30 p.m.

The play is set in the Harlem brownstone home of a black family consisting of a grandmother with roots in the old south, a grandson who is an Air Force dropout, his brothers and a father whose two years of college have left him with a thirst for knowledge he can share only with his next-door neighbor, a philosophical doctor.

"WILD, WOOLLY...."

"Moonshoes." Aqueous Fowle has been called "Wild, wooly and original" by Channel 52's TV critic and if you want to compare notes, you can catch A.F. next weekend in "Moonshoes" at Murray Theatre, on campus.

"Moonshoes will be given twice each night, at 8 and 11 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, January 23, 24 and 25. Reservations may be made at 452-8181 between 1:30 and 5 p.m.

The show is a combination of music and magic, and it's set in an asylum whose manager, Wafflesneaks (Robert Davidson), demonstrates the effects of his psycho-fantasi-kenetico-therapy on his patients. Inanimate objects come alive, patients lose their heads (literally!), others disappear and all the while the music of Aqueous Fnwle baroque forms with contemporary tonalities, Broadway show-style, country-western satire, classical jazz, etc., etc., etc., plays on.

Magic is staged by Teller the Magician, a performer with over 20 years of experience. Music comes from keyboard, vocal chords, sax, percussion and guitar.

FOR CHILDREN, 4-14

A Magic Show, "The Land of Pure Imagination" will be given on Saturday, January 25, as the tenth annual Rider College Children's Theatre production. The show, adapted and directed by Larry Capo of the Rider College Fine Arts Department, features an all-student company participating in an Interim Study Program.

"The Land of Pure Imagination," designed expressly for children from 4 to 14, features a magician and audience participation. Two performances will be held, one at 10:30 and the other at 2. Children's Theatre is sponsored by the Rider College Women's Club and the donation is $1.50 per ticket. Proceeds are used to support the scholarship fund. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. James McRoberts, 896-0943, Mrs. Barton Luedeke, 883-2915, or by calling the Student Center at Rider College, 896-0800.

Players' Production of "A Thousand Clowns" Proves Highly Enjoyable to SRO Audiences

"A THOUSAND (COUNT 'EM) CLOWNS:" Players in the Princeton Community Players' comedy, "A Thousand Clowns," are Allan Salkin and Marty Goebel. (Stuart Mindlin Photo)

Looking for somewhere to go and something to do to brighten up those post-holiday doldrums? The latest production of the Princeton Community Players may be just the answer. "A Thousand Clowns" opened last weekend at the new PCP Playhouse, 171 Broadmead, and will continue this weekend. Curtain time is 8:30 Friday and Saturday; 7:30 Sunday.

An additional public performance will be given Saturday, January 25.

This sparkling, witty, fast-paced comedy is guaranteed to keep you laughing while you are in the theatre and to send you out into the night feeling warm and good all over. Herb Gardner's writing is filled with clever one-liners that would make any stand-up comedian proud. But in the hands of a talented acting company the jokes and quips are even more successful, for they serve as a vehicle for getting to know some very likeable characters.

The leading character is Murray (Allan Salkin) a conglomerate of undefinable attitudes toward life. In his unwillingness to even look for a job, despite the responsibility of rearing his 12-year-old nephew alone, is he "wonderfully independent" or "extremely selfish"? When, time after time, he honestly, but tactlessly, insults those who can "help" him, is he proving the accusation hurled at him——"There is only one thing that really bothers you——other people."?

On the one hand he muses aloud that "The most you should expect out of life is a good apology for all you won't get out of life," and later wonders "What's the point if I leave anything exactly the way I find it?" But, on the other hand, when urged to "sort of return to reality for a moment," he insists, "I'll only go as a tourist."

..Salkin Superb. Salkin handles the role superbly. His precise timing, limitless facial contortions, and comfortable stage presence combine to reveal a character who is both a person and an experience.

David Steinberg, a talented 13-year-old Roosevelt boy with a wealth of acting experience, is well-cast as Murray's nephew, and straight man, Nick. His only problem is learning to pause rather than talk over laughs. He improved in this as the show progressed and no doubt will develop the professionalism that other aspects of his acting already reveal.

On the evening I saw the play, half the audience was made up of young Steinberg's school friends, a most impressive group of seemingly experienced theatre-goers who, in their unrestrained enjoyment of their friend and the entire production, added to the pleasure of all present.

Six years ago Nick was abandoned by his mother in his bachelor uncle's one-room Somehow they have made a go of it, growing to love and need each other deeply. And here comes the Welfare Board, once again investigating Murray's ability to rear the boy properly, and ultimately deciding this time that the boy must be moved to a more suitable environment.

More Credits. Marty Goebel as Sandra and Ed Watkinson as Albert comprise the Welfare Board's investigating team. Ms. Goebel makes the believable transition from a seemingly stuffy bureaucratic puppet to a likable down-to-earth human being. Watkinson is excellent as the institutional man who knows he lacks warmth, but can reveal the depth of his emotion while he is simultaneously denying it.

Norm Friedman adequately portrays Arnold, Murray's well-heeled older brother, who admits, "I'm lucky; I'm gifted. I have a talent for surrender."

In the closing minutes of the play, Roger Lipman as Leo, alias Chuckles the Chipmunk, adeptly manages to evoke both contempt and sympathy as he urges Murray to return to work as a writer for his kiddie TV program.

Much credit goes to the director, Judith Forusz. She has molded a group of talented actors into a finely-tuned working unit. Her strong direction is evidenced by faultless casting, good blocking, and total use of the theatre as the set.

I have only one criticism to level against the production. Act Two, scene two, the only one outside Murray's apartment, is overlong, difficult to understand because so much is overheard telephone conversation, and frankly not even necessary. The following scene provides all the explanation we need for what has transpired.

With this criticism aside, the play provides a delightful evening of entertainment, filled with people who make us laugh, and sometimes nearly cry, and whom we come to care about. One word of advice—call 896-1119 for reservations. Many disappointed people were turned away at the door.

AUDITIONS SCHEDULED

By Community Players. Auditions for "Philadelphia, Here I Come," by Brian Friel, which is the season's third production of the Princeton Community Players, will be held at the Players' theatre at 171 Broadmead, Tuesday and Wednesday at 8.

Leo Cohen, veteran director for the Players, will stage the play, which has parts for eight men and three women. Auditions are open to everyone in the Princeton area.

The Players have also announced an Actors' Workshop series to be conducted by Daniel Berkowitz, beginning in late February. Mr. Berkowitz is well known as actor, director, and currently executive director of Princeton's Summer Intime, with wide experience also in California, North Carolina and New York. Information about the series can be had by calling Mrs. Anne Bredon at 924-5976, and applications will be accepted through February 23. The Community Players mail address is Box 2171, Princeton.

The next monthly meeting of the Players--also open to the public--will be on Sunday, January 26, at 8:30 at 171 Broadmead. It will feature play readings.

COLLAGE, ON FILM

In Avant-Garde Evening. Two collage films by Jan Svankmajer of Czechoslovakia will be on the program of 13 short films to be shown during McCarter's annual evening of experimental, independent and avant-garde cinema. The "evening" is this Saturday at 8 p.m.

Svankmajer's "Jabberwocky" is a collage of images composed of nonsense activities performed by animated toys and games. "Historia Natura" takes the audience through evolution, from crustacea to man.

The evening will also present Robin Lehman's "Colter's Hell," a study of geysers and sulphur springs; Peter Foldes' "Metadata" using computer images to tell a boy-meets-girl story; Jordan Belson's "Light," an abstract film; and Frank Mouris' "Frank Film" in which Mouris tells the story of his own life through TV sets, birds, chairs, watches, babies and lips. The images fill the screen as the narrator narrates the things that have interested him during his life.

"SAVE THE TIGER"

At McCarter. Jack Lemmon's Academy Award-winning performance in "Save the Tiger" will be on view when the film is shown twice this week-end at McCarter. Showings are at 7 and 9 p.m. this Friday. Single admissions will be available at the box-office from 10 a.m. Friday.

Lemmon plays a financially strapped dress manufacturer who is trapped by his own lifestyle but too confused by his own corruption to change. Critics said his performance was the finest since his work in "Days of Wine and Roses."

FOR THE KIDS...

"Shane." The western classic, "Shane" will be shown this Saturday at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. as the next offering in McCarter's "Movies for Kids" series. Tickets will be on sale starting at 10 a.m.

PRINCE

The Night Porter. Critics dismiss "The Night Porter" as a sleazy Gothic porno, and they're right: it's just too kinky and outrageous for its own good.

Set in post-war Vienna, the film chronicles, in a bizarre, often graphic way, the sado-masochistic relationship of an ex-Nazi, whose prime wartime pleasure was masquerading as a concentration camp doctor, and a beautiful former prisoner who served as the not unwilling object of his sadistic and twisted sex urges. Comparisons with "Last Tango in Paris" are inevitable. But whereas Tango was artistically brilliant and extremely sensual, The Night Porter goes far beyond normal sexuality.

The two protagonists--Dick Bogarde as the ex-Nazi, and Charlotte Rampling as his former prisoner--push each other to extremes that cross into areas usually only encountered in Krafft-Ebbing or far-out hardcore. As a result, the film rarely succeeds in

Piano Recital by Rudolph Firkusny Showcase For Czechoslovakian's Extreme Versatility

Czech pianist Rudolf Firkusny presented a recital of predominantly romantic music on the third program of the Princeton University Concerts, Series II, Monday at McCarter Theater.

The evening began with a set of nine variations by Mozart, K. 573, on a rather unpresuming minuet by Duport, then moved on to the expansive, brooding Sonata in B flat major, D. 960, by Schubert. After intermission came Schumann's fanciful Davidsbuendlertaenze, Op.6, and four spirited Czech dances by Smetana.

The various pieces each demonstrated different aspects of Firkusny's many pianistic strengths: the Mozart showed off a silky touch and a light, loose hand; the Schubert called forth a sustained, introspective playing style; in the Schumann came the first really "unbuttoned" playing; and the Smetana dances provided brilliantly executed technical passages. Thus the program was in a sense a long "crescendo," beginning with the low-key, progressing through the more weighty and finally onto the really flashy.

Firkusny played the Mozart variations with a smoothness of touch which was to be seen throughout the evening. Sometimes he stroked, sometimes he almost plucked the keys. Striving occasionally for extreme delicacy, a number of notes happened not to sound, and perhaps this unpretentious piece really served Firkusny as something of a "warm-up." Indeed, he went directly on to the Schubert sonata without leaving the stage.

Air of Restraint. The two pieces on the first half are actually alike in many ways. Even though the variations are brief and adhere strictly to a formal model, and the sonata is broadly conceived and almost improvisatory, there is a general air of restraint in both compositions. They both require a relaxed and flowing touch, which Firkusny showed he possesses, although the problem of non-sounding notes in pianissimo sections did continue even into the sonata. But for that, he illustrated more than the usual range of expressive possibilities all within the soft range of the piano.

Another impressive feature of Firkusny's playing was his pedal technique. Although very occasionally given to stomping, he controlled a great deal of shadings with the pedal, and sometimes held on for quite long spans of time. Rather than muddy the sound, this usually increased the softness of the texture and added to the tenderness of the first three movements of the sonata. The first two movements are especially liable to lapse into gloom, but Firkusny's performance was more concentrated and meditative than doleful. The breezy scherzo cleared the air deliciously, and things finally opened up in the middle of the finale where a fiery episode exploded out of the rondo theme.

The Davidsbuendlertaenze, little dances illustrating the contrasting "personalities" of Schumann's imaginary musical heroes Florestan and Eusebius, present a variety of moods and an astounding array of inventive keyboard figurations. The technical demands here are considerably different from those in the sonata, and Firkusny began to display his more flashy style.

Again he tended to lose soft notes in the first few dances, sometimes to an unsettling degree. But he more thancompensated as he performed another feat at which he excels: racing octaves and repeated notes. Only once or twice sounding the least bit tentative, he flew up and down the keyboard with authority, in dangerous movements like "Wild und lustig" ("Wild and spirited").

Other Problems, Too. Another great difficulty of these dances, one which Firkusny conquered less consistently but to no lesser effect when he accomplished it, is the pulling out of melodies buried in the middle of thick figuration, as well as the clear separation of two equally important melodies going on simultaneously.

The Czech dances were the most brilliant pieces on the program, and less subtle than either the Schubert or Schumann compositions, yet they were no bagatelles. Firkusny brought these off in a manner which should make one suspect that Smetana is an unjustly underplayed composer. The dances were a vehicle for that kind of bravura playing which obviously is carefully studied, yet sounds at times violently spontaneous.

Three encores of bone-chilling difficulty followed the program: Chopin's popular Grande Valse Brilliante, Op. 18; and two etudes, one by Debussy and one by Smetana. Firkusny's hands bounced with amazing speed over vast amounts of keyboard in the etudes.

being even nominally erotic.

Bogarde gives a stunning performance as the guilt-ridden ex-officer living a cloistered life as night porter in a Viennese hotel where Ms. Rampling happens to stop while on a tour with her concert pianist husband. Their initial terror at meeting again soon gives way to mounting lust. She stays behind when her husband's tour is over.

Ms. Rampling is endangered, however, when a fraternity of ex-Nazis, devoted to clearing their reputations by "filing away" surviving atrocity witnesses, also takes note of her arrival. They lock themselves into his room where--cut off from food and electricity by the desparate fascists--they live out their last days in an orgy of masochistic diversions, including some pleasureful stepping on broken glass. Really, it's all too much.

The Life and Times of Grizzy Adams. This is one for the kids. An old trapper rescues a bear cub caught in a trap and helps raise it. The two are inseparable and if you think the bear repays Brizzy's early kindness and saves his life--you're right.

Heard about MR-7? New Radar Device Will Hear About You in a Hurry—If That's What You Are

There is bad news ahead for speeders in Princeton Township.

Thanks to a grant from the state Office of Highway Safety, Township police have obtained a sophisticated $2,300 Mobile Radar System known as the MR-7 that: has a range of 2,500 feet; is accurate within half a mile an hour; can measure the speed of cars traveling in either direction; works whether the patrol car is in motion or parked; and, operates in daylight, night, fog, rain or snow.

HIGH NOON FOR TOWNSHIP SPEEDERS: Sgt. Anthony Nini, Township Traffic Safety Officer, stands next to the MR-7, a highly sophisticated mobile radar unit that can do everything against speeders but write out the ticket.

Small wonder that Chief Frederick Porter has advised all speeders "to beware." "The MR-7," says Chief Porter, "provides scientific evidence against the speeder who until now could not be prosecuted."

He said that he was referring to the speeder who passes an oncoming patrol car. Until now, the patrol car had to turn around, give pursuit, keep the violator in sight and pace him to determine his speed. A fruitless act, because violators would simply reduce their speed on sighting the patrol car.

The MR-7 can be mounted outside or inside the patrol car. The officer then sets the unit for the maximum allowed speed in the zone he is patrolling. Any exceeding the speed causes the MR-7 to emit an audible "beep." "The faster the car, the louder the beep becomes," said Chief Porter. At the same time, the speed of the car appears immediately on a digital readout screen. If the patrol car is moving, too, its speed is filtered out by means of sophisticated electronics.

The unit, which resembles a small megaphone, is capable of reading speeds up to 199 miles an hour.

"It takes two hours to train a man in the use of MR-7" Chief Porter stated. He has four men in his department who have each received 10 hours training. Use of the MR-7, he said, will allow his officers to conduct both regular patrol and traffic control by monitoring traffic for speeding violations on a 24-hour basis, and thus free other officers for other duties.

Chief Porter reported that Township police investigated 318 accidents in 1973, in 46 of those, speed was a contributing factor. Investigations reveal that one in every seven accidents in the Township is related to speeding.

He believes that the MR-7 will enable police to be more effective in controlling speeders, reduce the rate of accidents and help save lives.

Speeders beware.

Crosstown-62 Under Study.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

As chairman of the Joint Transportation Committee, I have recently received a petition from former Crosstown-62 riders, asking that the service be restored. As it is not practically possible for me to respond to each individual separately, I am using the means of a letter to the editor to reach as many of the signators as possible.

Our committee was not initially involved in the decision to drop Crosstown-62 but the mayors of the Borough and Township have asked us to review ways and means of restoring such a service. We have submitted a budget for such service for 1975 and are in the process of developing a plan which we hope to see activated within a month.

IT'S NEW To Us

IT'S ALL FRESH

At Plentiful Acres. If you find a cornucopia or basket filled with gorgeous large ripe fruits and vegetables a beautiful sight, the idea of a store filled with the same should boggle your mind.

Although fruit stands are a common sight during the summer months, until recently the Princeton area has lacked a year-round facility devoted exclusively to high-quality produce. Now, however, there is Plentiful Acres on Route 27 just past Kingston.

As you enter this store the tables covered with beautiful loose produce that you can look over and select yourself is a marvelous picture. Partners JonathanFreeman and Donald Salvia believe in an old-fashioned view of merchandising and dislike the supermarket image of stainless steel, mirrors and cellophane packages.

They hope to bring people back to the local store where management is an easily found friendly face. Jon said, "We try to know our customers by their first names and we stand behind everything we sell."

Prices Reasonable. The nicest surprise, however, is—in spite of the high quality and personal service, the prices are extremely reasonable. The day we visited Plentiful Acres we saw bananas at 15 cents a pound; six lemons for 69 cents; eight super sweet California navel oranges for 99 cents; fresh kumquats at 39 cents a quart; papayas, 69 cents each; common onions 10 cents a pound; fancy red onions priced at two pounds for 39 cents; and strawberries 69 cents a pint.

There is also an incredible variety. For example, we saw coconuts, ginger root, large white squash, endive, anise, and fresh horseradish. Jon told us they have had requests for Chinese vegetables and will soon be carrying these. He said, "We try to have as much variety as possible. As long as there are people to buy it, we'll sell it."

In the warmer months Jon and Don plan to buy locally and open the front of the store to ressemble a farmers' market. However, for now they omit the wholesaler and drive to Philadelphia several times a week where they canpersonally choose the produce. When it comes to selecting, Don is quite knowledgable. Before coming here, he owned a similar store in New Hampshire.

The store itself reflects Jon and Don's concern for old-fashioned values. There are sleds, a black kettle, and colorful small paintings all around the tops of the walls depicting farm scenes and the story of Plentiful Acres.

We also should mention the delicious fruit whips that can quickly be made for you. A combination of honey, yogurt, ice and almost any choice of fruit, they make an excellent lunch or snack, 99 cents each. In addition, Plentiful Acres will make up fruit baskets priced from $10 to $25, which Jon feels make excellent hospital gifts; and if you are over 65, there is a 10 percent discount on everything but milk.

Located on Route 27 just north of Kingston (directly across from Shop Rite), Plentiful Acres is open Monday through Saturday from 9 until 6 with Thursday and Friday evenings hours until 8. It is also open Sunday from 10 to 6.

FABRICS FEATURED

At Classics Limited. A designer showroom need not be limited to designers, or so believes Nancy Myers of Classics Limited. In fact if you are searching for a rainy day activity (and this winter has had more than its share of downpours), Nancy suggests that you stop by and daydream among her many fabrics.

With the far-from-pleasant current economic situation, people are more often choosing to redecorate instead of moving and beginning anew, and Classics Limited has all the facilities for upholstering and making drapes. You can use your fabric or theirs—or if you already have someone to do the work, just buy the fabric.

Among the fabrics we saw some handsome handwoven woolens, some with a slight pattern; houndstooth fabrics in several colors; jacquard prints, casement material for drapes; and many bright prints. With fabrics from Scallamandre, Boris Kroll, Jack Lenore Larsen and Knoll, Nancy feels they can satisfy both contemporary and traditional tastes.

New Pieces. New among the furniture is a contemporary Windsor armchair in a natural wood. The ash wood has been steam bent to form a graceful

News Of Clubs and Organizations

The College Club of Princeton will present a motion picture filmed by Professor Louis Alvarez entitled, "The People's Republic of China," on Monday at 1:30 in the All Saints Church. The film was taken in 1973 during a trip by Dr. and Mrs. Marvin Goldberger, of 125 Fitzrandolph, to the Far East, showing in detail the cities of Shanghai, Peking and Canton.

The January meeting of the Society of Musical Amateurs will be held on Sunday at 5 at the Unitarian Church. Leon DuBois of the Rutgers Music Department (Camden Branch) will conduct a reading of two Bach Chorales, numbers 131 and 150. The soprano soloist will be Jean Thomas.

This reading is not a performance; anyone interested in choral singing is invited to participate or attend. No auditions are required to sing in the chorus, for which modest sight-reading ability is helpful. There is a small charge for those without a yearly membership to cover music and refreshments. For reservation or information, call Mrs. Michael Ramus, 924-4266.

Princeton's Chapter of Hadassah will hold its second book review meeting Thursday at 9:15 at the home of Mrs. Herbert Horowitz, 665 Snowden Lane. The discussion of Isaac B. Singer's "Satan in Goray," will be led by Dr. Gertrude Dubrovsky, Professor of Yiddish Literature.

Babysitting will be available; call Mrs. David Vilkomerson, 924-2504.

The Radcliffe Club of Princeton will hold its January meeting at the home of Mrs. Stephen Adler, 9 Veblen Circle, next Thursday, January 23 at 8. Mrs. Elizabeth Tukey will share her knowledge of American and English antiques with the group, all of whom are invited to bring their own antique objects to the meeting for identification and discussion. There will be a door prize of a small, collectible antique.

The Hightstown Registered Nurses will meet at the Old Yorke Inn on Tuesday at 8 to hear Dr. Leung Lee discuss "Thalassmemias, Sickle Cell Anemia and other Hemoglobinopathies." Dr. Lee is Director of Laboratories at Princeton Hospital.

Meetings of the association are held on the third Tuesday of each month with all registered nurses of the area invited to attend. For further information, call 443-3950.

Mayor Frank Nerwinski, Township of Lawrence, will preside at the installation of officers for 1975 of the Lawrence Senior Citizens Club I on Tuesday at 1 in the American Legion Headquarters (Post 414), 100 Berwyn Place.

back and the delicate joints have been reinforced with steel pins. This is a perfect go-between chair for traditional to contemporary, and it can be ordered in a range of woods or colored stains to go with any decorating scheme, $130.

Classics Limited is extremely pleased with their custom plexiglass tables, which are designed and made by George Greene, a Princeton artist well-known for his plexiglass pictures. There are many small models around the showroom, although each one is individually made and you therefore need not choose a specific style. Our favorite was a rectangular coffee table with metal legs whose top was an adaptation of one of Mr. Greene's pictures, having several layers of different colored plexiglass.

The tables come clear or colored, and we also saw lamps and pedestals. The cost is approximately $400 to $500 for a coffee table, and Nancy suggests using a glass top in place of the plexiglass because it is more scratch resistant.

Nadine's lovely appliqued pillows are here, priced from $20 to $60 for a large floor-sized one. Each is different, ranging from florals to a small cowboy; but if you can't find just what you want, she can design one to match your favorite colors. She also makes appliqued wall hangings for children, such as a furry cat sitting on a fence or a bright yellow caterpillar, $10 to $30.

Other accessories include dried flower arrangements by Mary Cnoke and a line of marble ashtrays or holders (perfect for anything from nuts to napkins) specially priced from $35.

Classics Limited also has a few items left from its half-price clearance sale, such as a Barcelona chair by Meis Van Der Rohe. It is in a tan leather and is extremely well priced at $670 as the new list price is $1700. A few other contemporary chairs are also available.

Located downstairs and to the right in the building at 2-4 Chambers Street, Classics Limited is open Monday through Friday from 9:30 to 4:30 or by appointment, call 921-6787

NEW SUBJECT, OLD FORMS: One of a collection of New Images, a display of realistic paintings by contemporary artists at the Squibb Gallery on Route 206 in Lawrence Township.

ART In Princeton

BACK TO BASICS

Simple Image-Making. The artistic definition of realism has undergone many changes during the past hundred years. A century ago, artists were freeing themselves from the academic realism of the establishment and creating more dynamic ways to represent the object.

Through the impressionist and the post-impressionist era pattern, color and light emerged as the artistic focus without sacrificing the essence of the subject. As the century turned, major artistic forces rejected representational forms and used them as a point of departure for both poetic and artistic statements. This trend continued without interruption into the '30s, although a few major painters turned to a figurative style that embodied many of the artistic elements of their more daring antecedents

Through the past two decades, realism continued to fall from favor among the leaders of the art world as artists sought out the visually unexplored areas of abstract expressionism, op art, hard edge and dozens of other new forms of visual expression. During this era, many reputable and recognized artists continued to deal with representational forms. Although their number was substantial, most of the attention was directed toward new forms, often celebrating novelty for its own sake.

The past few years have seen a resurgence of figurative painting, even among younger artists. Although much of the new realism employs different techniques including photo-realism, unusual subjective relationships and specific statements, a large body of work that might be described as a gentle form of realism is now being shown. Nature forms, portraiture, figure study, landscape and still life have reappeared with pleasing color, painterly effects and frequently, a resumption of the old verities.

Much of this realism is interpretive and includes elements garnered from earlier styles. Color, light and brushwork are often used to extend the viewer's perception and sensitize the observer's reaction to the visual elements.

"New Images in American Figurative Painting", the current exhibit at Squibb Gallery, explores an intimate and personal approach to simple image-making. In a collection including still life, landscape and figure painting, the subject rather than the style is updated

Superhighways, a movie star and other current images are rendered in a traditional painterly fashion. The palette is used to reflect and intensify the image. The many subjects combine to form leasing visual landscape. Scale is important in the display with many of the paintings portraying larger than life subjects.

Included in the collection are paintings by long-recognized artists such as Fairfield Porter and Philip Pearlstein, as well as works by many younger artists who are just beginning their careers.

At Assemblee. Graphics by Tina Mackler reflect this artist's long involvement with the dance. Fluid line drawings and lithographs portray classical studies of dancers as well as representations of specific artists. Balanchine, Makarova and Judy Ameson are among her subjects. Several studies of Marcel Mareeau in color and tone reflect the visual plasticity of the famous mime.

Mackler's line distinguishes itself in a different fashion in each of the media employed. Her own experience with the dance is combined with a good eye and the utilization of line and tone as expressive tools.

At Gallery 100. Paintings and lithographs by Audrey Salkind are a demonstration of her artistic flexibility and talent. Working in oils, acrylics, collage and lithography, the artist has created a collection that is consistently well designed, and competently and sensitively executed.

Realistic portrayals, interpretive realism and studies in pure form all display a sensitive relationship to medium and subject. This artist successfully combines color, brushwork and spatial relationships for a uniformly pleasing result. Ms. Salkind's painterly effects and control over her many media results in satisfying combinations of styles and subject.

Jnse Marie Yturralde exists as art and structural puzzles at the same time. Several geometric forms are explored by sectioning them and restructuring them internally and externally. Many of them contain optical tricks while others are constructed on mathematically-intricate relationships

Four different series are included In each a geometric form is explored and developed to its limit and then some. Cubes, squares, triangles and more diverse series titled Prisms are all related in fluorescent color, bringing the eye back and forth, often in opposition to the intricately structured subject The viewer is visually massaged, tricked and optically manipulated by this unusual and complex grouping.

It has been a weakness of all peoples through the ages to believe in a fountain of youth, an elixir of life, which would free them from pain, and restore youth and vigor. The oldest nostrum, which later developed into a real drug, and is still in existence today, is called "hiera piera." This powder of aloes and other ingredients was used by Arab doctors, Greek practioners in Rome, barbers, corn doctors, herbalists, the monastic doctors of the Middle Ages. It was even used by early English and American doctors.

DINNER DANCE PLANNED

By Hospital Auxiliary. "On Safari" is the theme of this year's dinner dance sponsored by the Doctors' Wives Committee of the Auxiliary of the Princeton Medical Center at the Princeton Day School on February 8. Cocktails will be served at 7:30; music for dancing will be provided from 8 until 12.

The Doctors' Wives are again grateful to Mrs. Susan Swartz and her art students from West Windsor-Plainsboro High School, who have donated their time and talents to transform the Princeton Day School gymnasium into the darkest jungles of Africa. Great Adventure has also loaned some props for the event.

Proceeds will benefit the Medical Library at The Medical Center, providing funds for the updating of medical books and journals used by the staff.

Co-chairmen for the dance are Mrs. Leroy Hunninghake, Mrs. William Boyce, and Mrs. J. Dean Pierson. Committee chairmen include Mrs. David A. Willard, invitations; Mrs. Joseph P. Leddy, staging; Mrs. Reuven K. Snyderman, treasurer; Mrs. John J. White, Jr., program and publicity; and Mrs. H. Brown Elmes, patrons and reservations.

Because attendance is limited, Mrs. Elmes asks that anyone wanting reservations call her before January 24 at 921-9158.

SOCIETY TO FORM

For Hearing Afflicted. Persons who suffer from hearing loss, or who are interested in the problems of persons whose hearing is impaired, are invited to attend the first meeting of the Hearing Society.

It will take place Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Merwick Extended Care and Rehabilitation Unit of the Medical Center at 83 Bayard Lane.

The Hearing Society is a non-profit organization seeking to provide information about all aspects of hearing loss to members of the Medical Center service area. Hearing aids, hearing tests, job training and other matters will be incorporated into programs planned by the new society.

Further information about the meeting can be obtained by calling the Communication Disorders Unit of Merwick at 609-921-7700, extension 226 or 227, between 8:30 and 5.

Patent Exhibit Planned

Tuesday, February 11, will be "National Inventors Day" and the New Jersey Patent Law Association, at the request of the U.S. Patent Office, will sponsor an exhibit dealing with inventions, both old and new, at the Princeton Public Library.

The display will include a section on patents held by Princeton area inventors and companies. Those who would like to participate should send one copy of their patents to R. C. Woodbridge, 56 William Street, Princeton, the exhibit coordinator.

Because of space limitations, only one, clear, non-returnable, unfolded copy of each participant's patent can be displayed. Space will be assigned on a first-come-first-served basis. In some cases, small examples of patented inventions may be displayed; however, no liability can be assumed for anything submitted. The display will be on view from February 4 through February 17 and participants are invited to send in their material prior to Monday, January 27.

COURSE INITIATED

For Speechreaders. Sufferers of hearing loss will benefit from speech reading programs beginning January 27 at the Merwick Extended Care and Rehabilitation Unit of the Medical Center, at both beginning and advanced levels.

Speechreading courses meet for one and a half hours each week for ten weeks in the Communication Disorders Unit. The beginners' course is for those who have never had speechreading, or who need a refresher course in basic techniques. Areas included at the beginning level are the recognition of lip postures, facial and non-verbal clues, and the speechreading of everyday phrases. Classes at the advanced level will feature more intensive work in conversation and situational speechreading.

Mrs. Mary Jean Metzger, director of the Communications Disorder Unit, commented, "People with hearing loss often feel that there is no help available to them, and this is not true. Adults who attended speechreading classes here last semester realized how much they could compensate for their hearing deficit by using other techniques."

Anyone wishing further information about speechreading, including class times, may call the

Two Princetonians Have a Stake in the Future from Career Development Awards

Looking under automobile hoods is Sal Lanzetta's favorite occupation. Employed at a Nassau Street service station, he used his award to study mechanics.

Pamela Sue Pinkham enjoys painting. Her 1974 Career Development Award is helping to subsidize her art education at Mercer County College.

Pamela Sue Pinkham, 18, a 1974 Princeton High School graduate, wants to be a professional illustrator, and she has just completed her first semester at Mercer County Community College learning how to be one.

Sal Lanzetta, 20, who graduated from Princeton High School in 1973, is now working at his first full-time job as an automobile mechanic at the Princeton Gulf Service Station on Nassau Street.

They are among the 77 people who have been helped by Career Development Awards, a wholly community-supported program whose grants to promising high-school graduates make commercial, technical, and vocational education possible for many of them. The first such program in the country, C.D.A. honors and subsidizes vocationally-oriented students for their special skills and for the important contributions they eventually make to society.

Miss Pinkham, who says, "I am really enjoying my courses (four art courses last semester) at Mercer County," received a $1,100 award for her first year's training upon graduation last June. Her grant is renewable for a second year after satisfactory completion of the first year's program.

Mr. Lanzetta, who completed a one-year training program in automotive mechanics at the Lincoln Technical Institute in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, received a $1,500 award, "I learned a lot," he says, speaking of his year at the Institute.

In order to continue the program, which now encompasses Lawrence Township as well as the Princeton Regional and Montgomery Township schools, "C.D.A. needs to raise $25,000 this year," according to Vladimir Metelsky, Co-Chairman of the Fund Raising Committee. To this end, Mr. Metelsky is currently soliciting area businesses and corporations for tax-deductible donations.

"Companies which have specific personnel needs may also earmark their contributions for specific training programs," he adds, "If no candidate for the training program applies, the donation is then added to the C.D.A. pool. Last year," says Mr. Metelsky, "C.D.A. awarded its second RCA scholarship."

Totally non-profit and with a volunteer board of trustees, C.D.A. disburses almost all of its funds in the form of financial grants and honor awards. Donations may be sent to Career Development Awards, P.O. Box 2304, Princeton.

Who's the only man to have taken part in both a Super Bowl football game and a National Basketball Association Championship Playoff Game?...Answer is Bud Grant who coached the Vikings in the Super Bowl, the first time in 1970, and played with the Lakers in an NBA championship game in 1950.

Did you know one of the most important scientific discoveries in history happened at a football field?...On Dec. 2, 1942, scientists working under the stands at the University of Chicago's football stadium created the first controlled nuclear chain reaction–and at that instant the atomic age was born...Chicago had given up football three years earlier, making their stadium available for the top-secret atomic experiments...And so, one of the biggest scientific milestones of all-time occurred–of all places–in a football stadium!

Tiger Quintet Shares Top Rung on Ivy Ladder But Could Lose Its Grip in Rough Race Ahead

Princeton's basketball team is going into the term-end examination break tied for first place in the Ivy League, but off its play against the same pair of opponents that Penn demolished, will have a difficult task maintaining a share of the top spot by the time the season ends on March 1.

While the defending champion Quakers were running into three figures against Dartmouth and Harvard at the Palestra, and smothering each by upwards of 25 points, the Tigers had their problems both nights. Their defense was unusually sloppy as they trimmed Dartmouth, 82-68, and they were within six points of being caught by Harvard in the closing minutes before winning, 67-57.

Both of these teams have had slow starts and are now improving as injured players return. Both will be much tougher opponents on their own courts when the Orange and Black faces them in back-to-back contests the weekend of February 14 and 15.

Well before that, of course, there is the matter of a return game with Penn at Philadelphia on Tuesday, January 28. If the Quakers win, as they should, the two teams will battle through February deadlocked in the loss column and waiting to see which won one may stumble along the road.

Games that each will play against Brown at Providence (the weekend of January 31-February 1) will be a major factor in determining the final standings. The Tigers will be idle now until a trip to Durham, N.C., for a second meeting this year with Duke. They lost to the Blue Devils in the South Carolina Classic last month, 66 to 57.

Steurer Has Fine Weekend. Topflight play in both games by co-captain Mickey Steurer was the biggest factor in Princeton's ability to run its streak of consecutive Ivy victories to 10. His 24 points against Dartmouth (on 9-for-13 floor shooting) were a career high, and the following night his total of 18 against Harvard included a perfect 12-for-12 at the foul line.

With only one senior in the starting lineup and two on the 12-man squad, Dartmouth under new coach Marcus Jackson has a future in Ivy action for the first time in more than a decade. The Green shoots constantly, averages better than 70 points a game and will make trouble for any low-scoring team that does not defense it well.

The Tigers fell into that category Friday night, bailing themselves out when they hit for a season-high 82 points. Had they done no better than their norm (64), they would have been victims of a major upset.

Coach Pete Carril's forces never trailed in the Dartmouth game, leading by 16-8 with only five minutes gone and taking a 40-34 margin into the locker room at the half. Their margin went to 10 shortly after play resumed, stayed in double figures most of the time and was worth 14 at the finish.

The losers shot relatively well (42 percent) over the zone that Princeton used defensively most of the game. Princeton managed 47 percent, with Barnes Hauptfuhrer (14), Armond Hill (12) and Tim Van Blommesteyn (10) following Steurer in the scoring. Senior Brien O'Neill has added some depth to the bench after complete recovery from the broken cheek bone he sustained in the opener with Fordham.

Flores in the Spotlight. Jim Flores, the 6-8 center who is only in his second varsity season despite being a senior, was a major factor in Princeton's ability to take a 9-point (33-24) lead over Harvard at the half. Guarding the Harvard co-captain, All-Ivy Lou Silver, he not only held him to a lone field goal in the first 20 minutes but scored a dozen points himself–an outstanding performance.

Silver, whose average is 22 points, eventually managed 10 on the night but spent a good part of the second half on the bench while the Crimson pressed with smaller, faster personnel in an effort to catch up. The tactics were effective to a degree, as the losers pared a 43-28 deficit shortly after the intermission all the way down to 61-55 with 1:43 to go.

Princeton's problems would have been considerably less in the closing minutes had not Hauptfuhrer gone completely cold at the foul line. Although averaging a respectable 71 percent, he missed all four first throws on one-and-one opportunities. It took the last of Steurer's 1.000 percent effort and four free throws plus a sleeper basket by reserve guard Pete Molloy to bail the Tigers out.

Superb defensive work not only by Flores but the rest of the starting team made the first half a miserable one for the Crimson. The Tigers held the visitors in check so adeptly that they had only three personals charged to them; in contrast, Harvard was over the limit with 11:15 to go and Princeton's lead at the intermission was all on its 9-for-9 foul shooting.

Princess for Princeton

When the Princeton Tigers defeated Harvard's basketball team in Jadwin Gymnasium Saturday night, the outcome met with the approval of Princess Grace of Monaco.

She was present as the guest of George Hauptfuhrer, himself a former Harvard player but now one of the Orange and Black's rooters with his 6-7 son Barnes in the Tigers' starting lineup.

The Kelly-Hauptfuhrer friendship dates back to World War II days when Grace Kelly's older brother Jack and George Hauptfuhrer were football and baseball stars at Penn Charter. According to Hauptfuhrer, the Princess' son "is a fine athlete who might some day go to Princeton."

By game's end, Harvard had a 26-23 lead in field goals but lost because it earned only seven free throws and made five, the Tigers converting 21 of 25--everybody but Hauptfuhrer making every shot. The turnover story was also largely in Princeton's favor—17 to 25.

Now no better than 3-8 on the season, Harvard is well below the pace expected of it on a basis of its available personnel. The Crimson is all but mathematically eliminated with its two early losses in league play but nonetheless retains the ability to make trouble for the contenders at Cambridge.

HOCKEY TEAM LOSES

Beaten by Providence, 11-5. After having the temerity to take a 2-1 lead over a strong Providence sextet at the end of the first period, Princeton's hockey team ran into major defensive problems in Baker Rink Saturday night. The 11-to-5 defeat which the Rhode Islanders pinned on the Tigers was their sixth of the season against two victories.

They will, accordingly, go into February before they win at home this season. The oddball schedule, which gave them just one game here between December 10 and February 1, will send them on the road again when exams are over toward the end of this month. Boston University and Northeastern are billed for January 24 and 25 and Ivy action will resume four days later against Cornell at Ithaca.

The Ithacans, incidentally, are quite likely to finish out of first place for the second year in a row. They have been beaten by Brown in overtime on their own ice and by Harvard at Cambridge (4-2), barely winning the following night from Dartmouth at Hanover. That, too, was sudden-death——7-6.

Harvard, meantime, has a hammerlock on the title it won last winter for the first time in a dozen years. The strong, unusually deep Crimson knocked off Brown in a pair of pre-season games and then added to its big lead in the standings by topping Cornell last weekend.

Goals by Gary O'Meara and Craig Dahl put Princeton in front of Providence, one of the leading teams in Division I of the ECAC, and the visitors did not draw even until the middle round. Then they turned on the light five times——three of the goals coming while defenseman Al Rosner was sitting out a misconduct for sassing the ref.

Bruce Quackenbush, son of the freshman coach, brought the Tigers to within 4-3 with his first varsity goal during the second round, but the visitors pulled steadily away thereafter. Another misconduct was debited to the losers when O'Meara inadvertently skated into one of the officials.

Dahl got the hat trick before the night was over, but the entire Princeton team was outscored by one Providence line, which accounted for six of the victors' goals. Shots were 44-37, also for Providence.

PDS FIVE TRIUMPHS

Over Croydon Hall. "It was pretty much of a laugher," observed PDS Coach Alan Taback, after his team walloped Croydon Hall on Friday, 92-35. The win raised the Panthers' record to 6-2, as their Saturday game with Solebury School was rescheduled to February 10 because of player conflicts with College Board Achievement tests.

PDS raced to a 31-6 first quarter lead against the visitors which stretched to 56-19 at the half. Ten players contributed baskets, as Randy Melville was top man with 22 points and Frank Kon-stantinowicz added 17. Konstantinowicz also engineered the attack with 10 assists, showing that he is fully recovered from a bothersome ankle injury.

Keith Thomas with 11 points, Billy Martin with ten, and Paul Goldman with ten rounded out the group in double figures. Thomas sparked the PDS defense, which forced many turn-overs with a match-up zone press.

Taback felt that his team "played exceptionally well, considering Croydon was a poor team against which we could have played a sloppy game and still won easily." He commented that, since vacation, "we're a much improved club," but "all of the tough games are ahead of us."

The first of the Panthers' tough games was scheduled for this Wednesday against the Hun School, which defeated PDS in the Hightstown Tournament finals by three points. Next it will travel to Blair Academy on Friday and later must meet Lawrenceville, Peddie and Rutgers Prep., probably the three best teams on the schedule.

SQUASH TITLE WON

By Rochester Woman. Ginny Akabane of Rochester, N.Y., won the New Jersey State Women's Squash Racquets Championship Sunday in Jadwin Gym when she defeated Barbara Maltby of Philadelphia, 15-9, 15-7, 9-15 and 15-11.

None of the Princeton area favorites survived, as Dede Webster of Hopewell and Wendy Zaharko of the Princeton University squash team, the country's top woman collegiate player and the defending N.J. state champion, were eliminated in the quarter-finals.

Nina Moyer of Pennington was defeated by Ms. Maltby in a grueling one-hour and twenty-minute semi-final match after capturing the first two sets, 12-15, 15-16, 15-10, 15-12, 18-16. On Saturday at the Pretty Brook courts, Ms. Moyer had triumphed in unexpectedly easy fashion over Miss Zaharko in the quarter-finals, 15-4, 15-5, 15-7. She is a former two-time national champion.

Three Princeton University players participated in the consolation finals: Cece Turner, captain of the team; Nancy Carver and Cindy Sutter. Miss Carver lost to Carol Weymuller of New York in the final match.

PHS VS. ST. ANTHONY'S

Little Tigers Need a Win. The Princeton High School basketball team will try to end a three-game losing streak Friday afternoon at 3:45 when it plays host to St. Anthony's.

Both teams need a win badly. PHS is 1-4, while St. Anthony's, picked by many before the start of the season to be a contender, has floundered badly. Neither has won a Mercer County League game. On Tuesday, PHS will travel to Hamilton for an 8 p.m. contest.

The Little Tigers slipped to 1-4 after a 72-49 loss Friday to Ewing. "I didn't expect to set the world on fire, but I didn't expect to be 1-4 either," commented Marv Trotman, Princeton High's firey coach. "I've never been 1-4 before; it's a first for me."

"I just hope the kids can come back and don't get down on themselves."

An inconsistent Little Tiger team--"that's been our pattern all year," said Trotman--and an outstanding performance by Ewing's 6-5 center Bob Potts, who poured in a career-high 32 points and grabbed 21 rebounds, combined to bring PHS down.

"Potts had a tremendous shooting game. He jumped well. It's the finest game he's played and we didn't do anything to deter him," said Trotman. In the first half, Princeton's tenacious man-to-man defense was effective and forced Potts to take long shots. PHS trailed by only two, 28-26, at the half.

In the second half, Ewing's guards were able to get the ball into Potts and the home team Blue Devils went on a scoring spree, outpointing PHS 21-8 in the third period. That was the game.

What happened? "I wish I knew," said Trotman. "I said at the beginning of the year that we are capable of winning basketball but there doesn't seem to be as much desire. It's not so much a lack of height," Trotman continued, referring to the Ewing debacle, "but a lack of hustle. We play a good quarter or half and we think the other team is going to lie down."

One reason PHS managed only 49 points was attributable to its poor shooting. "We had the shots, they just wouldn't go in," Trotman said. From the foul line, PHS was a horrible 1 for 13.

Pete Watson excelled for PHS in defeat. He scored 16 points--high for PHS--grabbed 18 rebounds and handed off six assists. "He had a very tough game," agreed Trotman. "He's playing in his normal groove now, he's just getting back into stride after being out for football."

Felix Brown had 15 points for PHS while teammates Shawn Craig and Daryl Marshall added six apiece.

ABOUT-FACE AT PDS

Skaters Win Two. After losing its first two games before Christmas, the PDS hockey team returned from vacation to record successive wins over Wissahickon, 4-3, and Peddie School, 11-0.

ROBBIE MCPHERSON, junior reserva player on the PHS basketball team, saw action in last week's game at Ewing.

It was PDS' first win on the Wissahickon ice in several years, an achievement coach Aubrey Huston described as a real confidence-builder. "More than anybody standing out," he said, "we played an all-round steady game, finally putting something together."

The fact that no one scored more than one goal, and that goalie Ditch Gordon was called upon for only 11 saves, proves Huston's point. The two teams traded scores into the second period, until John Rodgers, just up from the freshman team, hit on a picturesque one-on-one goal, with an assist from Mark Blaxill, to make the count 3-2. Then, in the final seconds of the period, Mark Zawadsky produced what proved to be the winning goal while PDS was short-handed.

Wissahickon narrowed the lead in the evenly-played third period, but Gordon permitted them to score only on a close-in rebound shot, and PDS had its first win of the year. First period goals were credited to Bill McClellan, on assists by David O'Connor and Tom Moore, and to Ralph Brown with an assist by McClellan. Murray Wilmerding and Jim Daubert stood out on defense.

Runaway Contest. Against Peddie, which had only been beaten by Wissahickon by one goal, almost everyone stood out for PDS. Jeb Burns had four goals, including all three PDS markers in the first period; David O'Connor chipped in two in the second period, and Jim Daubert contributed four assists.

Commenting on the 59 shots PDS uncorked, Huston praised the Peddie goalie for the 48 saves he managed. He added that "Peddie is still building its hockey program after only three years of play". Gordon made 15 saves for PDS, many on tough rebound shots.

PDS was off and churning when Burns connected on a 70-foot slapper that skipped once and carried over the Peddie goalie's glove. Later goals were added by senior wing Mike Young, Mark Blaxill, sophomore Jim Brush and Tom Moore, while defenseman Wilmerding had a solo rink-length rush for a score, plus three assists.

Three Games Soon. The PDS skaters were scheduled to play the Hill School in Pottstown, Penn., on Wednesday, always one of the toughest contests on the schedule.

On Friday, they will host Christian Brothers from Lincroft. This team which has just joined the High School hockey league is a new addition to the PDS schedule. It tied Peddie, 3-3, earlier this year, but coach Huston says that they do have a few top players. Lawrenceville will come to the PDS rink next Wednesday.

MATMEN LOSE PAIR

At Ewing Tuesday, Princeton High School's beleaguered wrestling team dropped two more dual meets last week, losing to Lawrenceville School, 34-21, on Saturday——its best performance yet——and to Notre Dame earlier in the week, 37-18. The Little Tigers are currently 0-5.

They will be at Ewing Tuesday evening for an 8 p.m. match (junior varsity bouts will begin at 6:30) and this Wednesday evening they were scheduled to oppose Hamilton in the PHS gym. Hamilton represents the best chance on the entire schedule for PHS to grab that first win.

Neither Dave Robinson, Princeton's crack 108-pounder, nor Greg Robinson (129 pounds) wrestled against Lawrenceville for failure to make weight. Both took part in exhibition matches and each recorded pins. Had they wrestled, PHS coach Tom Murray believes the outcome would have beendifferent. "We might even have won it," he said; "two pins would have given us the match."

Luther McKeller, substituting for Dave Robinson, won a decision while Scott Moore, filling in for Greg, lost a decision. Lawrenceville forfeited the 115-pound match; PHS, as usual, the unlimited match.

Ray Browner, PHS 188-pound wrestler, got the only pin for the losers——his first victory of the season. Capturing decisions for PHS were Nohman El-Meligi, 141-pound class, who Murray said "wrestled a beautiful match" and Fred Eiker, 158-pounder.

Gus Moffo, wrestling for the first time, lost a decision in the 148-pound class. Freshman Dave Wilson lost a 6-3 decision in the 122-pound class. Tom Cawley, freshman 101-pounder for PHS, Dave Amarel (135) and George Pezdirtz (172) were pinned.

Eiker Gets 0:54 Pin. Against Notre Dame, PHS won five of 12 bouts but only one was a pin. It was a standout, however, as Eiker flattened Notre Dame's Martin Mockler in 54 seconds. The Irish engineered four pins——Bob Ellis, McKeller, Sal Arearo and Pezdirtz the victims——and got another six points by forfeit in the unlimited class.

Winning decisions for PHS were Peter Kahn, 8-1, in the 115- pound class; Greg Robinson, 7-1, in the 129-pound class; Amarel, 5-0, 135-pound class; and El-Meligi, 5-1, 141 pounds.

PHS trailed 21-18 with only three bouts to go. Once again, Robinson did not wrestle at the 108-pound level. Murray reported that veteran 115-pounder Tom Severson might drop a weight to 108 and let Robinson battle Kahn for the right to represent PHS in the 122-pound class.

HUN FIVE WINS, LOSES

George School Here Friday. The Hun School basketball team split games against two fine teams last week, losing Friday, 70-64, to Newark Academy (6-2) and earlier in the week nipping Peddie, 69-68, on a field goal by freshman Ron Payton in the last four seconds. Despite the one loss, Hun still owns a fine 7-3 mark.

Hun has two games left before taking a two-week semester break. Friday evening at 8:30 it will play host to George School. This Wednesday afternoon at 3:30, it was scheduled to take the short trip across town to face rival Princeton Day School.

Hun defeated PDS last month in the championship game of the Hightstown Christmas Tournament. "They'll he waiting for us; that's for sure," observed Hun coach Dave Leete. PDS, incidentally, defeated Newark Academy in its season's opener.

Hun will not resume play until January 31, following the George School contest, when it will entertain Solebury.

Foul Line Decisive. In both games last week, the outcome was decided at the foul line as far as Hun was concerned. Against Newark, Leete commented that "we had a chance but we missed some foul shots as the end when we were kind of tired." Hun was 12 for 26 from the free throw line. "A lot were the front end of some 1-and-1s, and that hurt us," said Leete.

Tony Trani, 24 points, and Payton (18) were the top scorers for Hun, while Nick Brady and Mike Troyanovitch added seven each. Hun trailed at the half, 30-29.

Peddie Surprised. Five days after Leete had remarked that his team hadn't yet learned to play under pressure following a loss to Hamilton, Leete had to eat crow. In a pressure-packed game with Peddie, it was Hun which refused to cave in against the taller, favored Falcons.

This time Hun won it at the foul line, converting 21 of 31 while Peddie was 14 for 23. Payton, the 6-4 freshman phenomenon, not only won the game with his jump shot from the corner in the final seconds but he outplayed Peddie's 6-8 center, Jim Robertson.

Payton had a game high 24 points (it was also his career high but one that doesn't figure to last long) while Robertson had 18. Leete also cited the play of Troyanovitch, who added 11 points, including, said Leete, "a key tip-in near the end." His play under the boards (nine key rebounds) also drew praise from Leete. Payton had 11 rebounds.

Trani (11) and Terry McEwen (10) were the other Hun players in double figures.

Peddie, which entered the game with a 5-1 record, led, 59-51, after three periods, but Brady and Payton each scored six points and co-captain Logue added four as Hun came storming back. Robertson fouled out at the 5:15 mark and Peddie starter Dave Hill also fouled out to make Hun's comeback a little easier.

Still, Peddie regained the lead, 66-65 with 50 seconds left. Then Troyanovitch tapped in a Trani miss to give the lead back to Hun with 27 seconds left, but Peddie's Bill Heard sank two foul shots with 17 seconds left to bring the lead back to Peddie and set the stage for Payton's dramatic shot.

$50 MILLION NEARED

In Assets at Princeton Savings. Although the year 1974 was one of the most turbulent in American economic and financial history, Princeton Savings and Loan Association enjoyed a continued, though more moderate, growth in all areas of operations, President William H. Boozer, Jr. reported in releasing the savings association's year-end financial statements.

As of December 31, total assets nudged the $50 million plateau with a record figure of $49,965,393. Savings rose to a total of $43,102,451.

"Uncertainties in the economy encouraged a greater inflow of savings as the year drew to a close with families obviously opting for greater security," Mr. Boozer said. "We feel that this, coupled with our higher interest rates portend a strong flow of savings in the coming year."

Princeton Savings recently added a new six-year Savings Certificate to its list of savings plans that pays 7¾ percent a year on a minimum deposit of $5,000. The association also began compounding interest on a daily basis during the year.

"We paid a total of $2,430,216 in dividends to our savers in the 12-month period," Mr. Boozer said, noting that increased income is good news to everyone, particularly during a period of severe inflation. At the same time, reserves grew to $217,418, adding further to the basic strength of the institution. "Our savers also enjoyed the added benefit of increased Federal Savings and Loan Insurance coverage, which doubled from $20,000 to $40,000 on November 27," he reported.

Against adverse conditions in the housing sector, Princeton Savings added a significant 213 new mortgages aggregating $8,658,668, which brought its mortgage portfolio to a sum total of $44,797,281.

"It wasn't our best game but it showed we can play under pressure," said Leete. Hun shot 43 percent from the floor, connecting on 24 of 54 attempts.

TEMPLE TOPPED, 59-48

Tigers Kill Owls' Zone. A first-half shooting percentage of 53 over Temple's sluggish zone defense paved the way for a 59-to-48 victory for Princeton's basketball team Tuesday night at Philadelphia. Mickey Steuerer continued his hot streak with another 20 points, giving him a total of 62 in his last three games.

The Tigers were as adept on defense as they were when they had the ball, holding the home team to 20 points in the first half. When Steuerer produced 14 of his total during that time and Barnes Hauptfuhrer added 10, this pair outscored the Owls' combined efforts by four. It was 36-20 at the intermission.

Princeton had a few second-half problems, as it has on several occasions this season, and Temple gradually peeled away its deficit until it trailed by only six (53-47) with 1:07 to go. A pair of free throws by Armond Hill and a valuable three-point play by center Jim Flores then put the contest out of reach.

For the third straight game, the Tigers' defensive skills kept them out of foul trouble and they never went over the limit of six in either half. Hill joined Steuerer and Hauptfuhrer in double figures, the Tigers placing three in that category despite a low team total.

The $4,975 Question.

Q. In times like these, can you reasonably expect to get $4975 worth of car for $4975? Well, let's talk fact.

First, the Audi 100LS hasn't risen one dollar in price this year. That puts you way ahead right there.

Second, the Germans build the Audi to last. Planned obsolescence just isn't compatible with their thinking.

Third, consider the built-in luxuries: the comfort of legroom and headroom equal to some cars twice the price. And orthopedically designed reclining seats.

Fourth, it's the only luxury car combining front-wheel drive, torsion crank rear axle, rack-and-pinion steering, and front disc brakes. It handles superbly.

Fifth, on top of everything else, it gets about 2? miles to the gallon.

True, it's hard to find full value in any product today. But this isn't just any product. It's the Audi 100LS. $4975* worth of luxury car, without question.

News Of The CHURCHES

HUNGER IS THEME

Of Chapel Fellowship. A priest who fasted from Thanksgiving Day to Christmas Day will visit the University Chapel Thursday at 9:30 p.m. to address the weekly service of the student Chapel Fellowship on "The World Food Crisis and the Threatened Famine in Many Parts of the World".

The Reverend Ned Murphy, S.J., of Baltimore, undertook his lengthy fast to dramatize the seriousness of the hunger crisis. Dean Gordon of the Chapel pointed out that at a time of food shortage in the world, it is the already undernourished who are faced with a reduction in their essential food supplies.

The half-hour service will consist of hymns, scripture, readings from literature, and prayer, in addition to Father Murphy's talk. It is student-directed, and no collections are taken.

Frank E. Nowell, a sophomore who is chairman of a committee of volunteers dedicated to raising funds on the University campus to be contributed to the World Hunger fund, is one of the organizers of the service. He will be present to answer questions of those wishing to help the hungry.

RECIPES ARE READY

For Meatless Meals. Recipes from the "Sharing Meal" held at the Nassau Presbyterian Church in December are now available to anyone interested in ideas for preparing meatless meals. Copies are located in the main hall of the Palmer Square church building under the world hunger bulletin board.

The meal was held to demonstrate the wide variety of tasty, creative and economical meals that can be prepared without using meat. Mrs. Pat McPherson, 15 Randall Road, who organized the meal, said that 26 recipes were produced by this sharing of ideas to facilitate others in experimenting with meatless meals. She invites non-church members to wet their appetites by visiting the table of recipes.

CAR STRIKES TREE

Trenton Couple Injured. A Trenton couple was injured last week when their car ran off Route 206 a quarter of a mile from Quaker Road and struck a tree.

The driver, Marion H. Keen, 55, told police that she swerved off the road to avoid a rear-end collision when a car in front of her braked. Her car was traveling around a curve on a downgrade when the mishap occurred.

She sustained a severe laceration of the tongue. Her husband, Norman, 56, received contusions of the head. Both were treated at Princeton Medical Center. There were no police charges.

Small Car Overturns. A small foreign car overturned last week when it was struck from behind by another car on Bayard Lane near Avalon Place.

The small car of Kathleen B. Boudreaux, 35, of Coppermine Road, was pushed forward about 50 feet by the impact. It was forced over the curb and up a four-foot embankment where it overturned. It landed on its side in the roadway.

Ptl. William Fitch charged the second driver, Robert Leiggi, 24, 154 Bayard Lane, with careless driving. He was traveling behind a line of cars that had started to move again after stopping for the light at Avalon Place. He continued on, he said, but their forward motion was less than he had anticipated. He braked but was unable to avoid striking the Boudreaux car in the rear.

Mrs. Boudreaux complained of a pain in the neck and Mr. Leiggi sustained a laceration of the arm. Both were treated at the Medical Center. A passenger, Eda Leiggi, 48, received head contusions.

CLEAN-UP DRIVE SET

By Princeton Jaycees. In conjunction with National Jaycee Week, January 20-26, The Princeton Jaycees will conduct an anti-litter campaign throughout Princeton.

"It's an idea Mayor Cawley gave us," said John Baker, Jaycee President. "He said in a talk to the Jaycees last week that one of the complaints he received most often was that there weren't enough street cleaners in town. But getting more machines to clean up does not solve the problem, since people aren't using the many waste receptacles provided along streets."

The Jaycees will be out during their lunch hours next week with garbage bags cleaning up the area, and will spend all of Saturday, January 25, roaming through the Township and Borough looking for litter.

Ending Jaycee Week will be a membership breakfast for the Jaycees and guests, including Mayors Cawley and Bleiman. During the breakfast at the Pretty Brook Tennis Club, the Jaycees will present special awards to a member of both the Borough and Township Police Departments. The Jaycees hope to make this an annual event, in keeping with their policy of service to the community and recognition of the contribution of its citizens and its government.
